

Air Fryer Potato Peelings are the perfect way to use leftover potato peels. Not only do they make a crispy snack, but you can add your favorite seasonings to really change up the flavor. It's time to give these tasty crisps a try!

What I love about this simple air fryer recipe is that it's just a few easy steps to make these crunchy potato skin chips. From the first time making them, you're going to love the super-fast way that you can get those crunchy skins!

So many people toss the skins in the trash, but that's a ton of food waste that just isn't necessary! Instead, this is a great way to keep the skins out of the compost bin, and put them into your tummy where they belong!

Notes

The easiest way to get the skins off the potatoes is to use a vegetable peeler. You'll want them to be larger in size, if possible, but if not, you can still cook them up. they'll just be a varying color of golden brown depending on the size.
